Events & Expos

I have participated as either an attendee or exhibitor in over 50 conferences, trade shows, and expos across the United States.

I have worked hundreds of additional entertainment, community, wedding, and corporate events as a coordinator, reporter, disc jockey, photographer, and/or videographer.

My diverse expertise continually allows me to be a valued freelance agent and consultant.

My passion has always been involvement with content creation and live events. I have experience as a radio station manager, media center coordinator, professional educator, public information officer, event planner, and entrepreneur. My career path has also given me additional experience in sales, marketing, television, entertainment, audio recording, writing, broadcast journalism, photography, studio engineering, and more.

Boosting morale, offering encouragement, and providing exceptional customer service are important to me. I still maintain the leadership philosophies and best practices learned while working on the Walt Disney World College Program. I am proud to have been personally involved with helping many charities and non-profit organizations over the years.

Throughout my work experience at the Brandywine School District, I developed and sustained numerous community partnerships. I researched then communicated regularly to a wide audience including faculty, parents, students, alumni, and the general populace within this large organization. Being the general manager of WMPH 91.7 FM, I turned the defunct high school radio station into a 24-hour a day entertaining and profitable part of the community. The radio station won several awards, accomplished academic objectives set by the school district, increased community awareness of public service campaigns, and reduced the juvenile delinquent stigma by showcasing our fine young men and women in positive roles.

During my tenure with the school district, I had trained hundreds of students. Many of my former students have credited their association at WMPH as a major influence in their career path stating the experience improved their lives. I also began a second broadcast facility called WMPH 2 Internet Radio. I am the founder and former coordinator for the Broadcast Learning Center of the Brandywine School District that includes not only the radio stations, but a closed-circuit television facility, recording studio, film club, school newspaper, puppet club, and school web site. I was also the founder and chairperson for the Mount Pleasant Historical Society celebrating a legacy of learning since 1830.

I then created the Dance Radio Network LLC. I founded the company to create and distribute programming to affiliate radio stations via satellite. I later became president of Go Far PR LLC, a public relations and creative marketing agency. I also provide disc jockey, photo booth, and multimedia production services under the name Colonel C. For all my ventures, I was always on-time and under-budget.
